

Text of Email from Benjamin Hari, 9/1/16

Dear all,

First of all I wish you a happy and successful new year 2016.

Your bursary I received in 2013 helped me to complete my Master in Science at City University London with Distinction and to become an Airline Pilot for Cathay Pacific Airways. I am still very thankful for the award.

Because of my strong interest in Human Factors on flight decks I am planning to conduct a PhD research at City University London. My aim is to serve the aviation and contribute to its safety and reliability by providing expertise and insights. The practical orientated PhD research will be an asset for all stakeholders, because it analyses in deep the structure of pilot's interaction with a high reliable automation. Cathay is an excellent airline and my regular exposure to this environment as an airline pilot will be a significant contribution to the thesis.

I would like to ask you if Air Pilots is interested to contribute in my research? Maybe there is a topic which may be of your interest within the framework of my proposal?

Please find attached a copy of the PhD proposal for your reference.

I am looking forward to your reply.

Kind regards,

Benjamin Hari